

TATTOO & PIERCING Bands

TATTOO & PIERCING Bands

Tattoo & Piercing Bands from Alliance Rubber Company are the industry standard for tattoo & body piercing artists, providing reliable tension and stability where it's needed the most.

The size #12 synthetic rubber bands provide smooth, stable operation of the tattoo machine needle, helping to prevent swaying during use. They ensure proper needle movement and are particularly effective with flat shading needles, which have an open-top tube tip. For consistent tension and to maintain hygiene, the rubber bands are replaced with each new tattoo.

Size #8 synthetic rubber bands are used primarily as a support item for piercing, but can also be useful on rotary tattoo machines.

VALUE

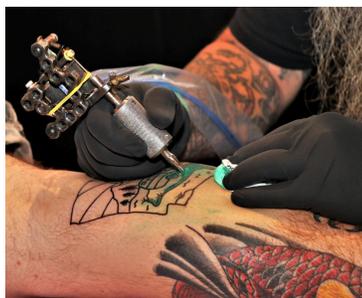

These bands are also useful for many other tasks in tattoo and piercing studios, such as securing bags on wash bottles and keeping workstations organized.

TIPS

Use these rubber bands to hold tattoo machine and needles together for a smoother outline during the tattoo process.

This simple fix prevents shaking of the needle bar during the tattoo that creates a rattling noise.

Adjust the rubber band tension to allow the machine to push the needle up and down smoothly.
